Few Contests Will Mark Town Elections Tuesday

Only one contest is on the township ticket in Frankfort township in the coming election of April 4 but at New Lenox there are three.

The only contest in Frankfort township is for the office of collector. The incumbent, Burnett W. Schram, who operates the barber shop at Frankfort, is opposed by John Robert Dean, druggist, owner and operator of the Frankfort Pharmacy.

Schram is running on the Independent No. 1 ticket with three other incumbents, George J. Tate, Frankfort, seeking re-election as supervisor; Harold J. Cooper, Mokena, up for town clerk and Harold A. Smith, Frankfort, seeking re-election as assessor.

The only candidates running for the three town auditor posts are on the Independent No. 1 ticket. They are August Werner, Adam J. Heuser and Roy H. Koerner. All three are to be elected.

The same polling places used in the county election will be utilized in the town election. No. 1 is in the Frankfort village hall; No. 2 is the Cooper-Horstert Garage, Front St., Mokena; No. 3 is the garage at the home of Mrs. Viola Hostert, 195th and Ann Rutledge school, Lincoln Estates.

There are four precincts in New Lenox township. No. 1 is at the fire station, Church st. and U. S. 30; No. 2 is the basement of Grace Episcopal church Hickory and Pine; No. 3 is at the Robert McCleary home (in the garage) N. Cedar and Fourth; No. 4, the George Marshall store, N. Cedar road. The polls open at 6 a.m. and close at 6 p.m.

In New Lenox township the officers to be elected this year are town clerk, town collector, assessor, three town auditors

Slides Show How L-W Spends Its Tax Dollars

A set of colored slides depicting just what the proposed educational fund tax rate increase would mean to taxpayers in the Lincoln-Way area were shown to the Lincoln-Way high school board of education last Thursday night at a regular meeting. The slides, shown by Lewis Loebe of New Lenox, chairman of the publicity committee of the Citizens' committees, show how the tax dollar is divided, in comparison with other districts and what the taxpayers received for their money. The slides, approved by the board, will be used to illustrate talks for various school and civic organizations from now until the bond referendum set for May 20.

Loebe reported that between April 1 and 10, the committee has eight speaking engagements scheduled. The district is asking for an increase of 21 cents on the assessed $100 valuation. Members of the board went on record as saying they would replace the late bus services for Lincoln-Way students staying after school for athletics or extra-curricular activities if the referendum passes.

Board members said, "We curtailed this service when the last referendum failed because we had to cut financial corners someplace. If the referendum goes thru, one of the first things will be the restoration of the late bus service."

A report and summary of the work of the Citizens' committees were given by Lorin Schleeter and Robert Geuther. Two new members were named to the committees. They are Floyd Martin and Cal Heath, both from Lincoln Estates.

Teachers from the social studies department were present to describe the social studies program to the board. Present and two library directors.

The Town ticket, as far as clerk, collector and assessor are concerned is made up of incumbents. Roy A. Minger is seeking re-election as town clerk and is being opposed by Donald C. Hanson, assistant to the freight traffic manager of the Rock Island railroad. He has been with the road 21 years; married and has four children.

Mr. Minger operates a brokerage office in Joliet, Mar-erage office in Joliet. George W. Marshall, incumbent assessor, operates a grocery store. His opponent is Dominic Rini, sales manager for the Aluminum Sales and Service Co., Joliet. Was formerly a supervisor with U. S. Rubber. Has wife and two children.

The other independent candidate, Joseph C. Szawars, a streakeeper at the coke plant for 15 years, is seeking a post as town auditor. He is not running against any particular candidate. Three are to be elected. The Town party has three candidates, Billy E. Van Cleave, William Loucks and Worth W. Merritt. The three candidates receiving the highest number of votes for auditor will be the winners.

The county clerk's office warned this could be a tricky one. A person who marked a cross in the circle at the top of the town ticket and then crossed over and voted for the independent candidate for town auditor would in effect vote only for him and against the three candidates on the Town party ticket, it was explained.

The only candidates for library directors are Fred H. Scheel, retired power firm official, and Jane K. Anderson, housewife. They are listed on the Town party ticket.

were Kevin McGivern, head of the department Gene McGivern, James Wrath, Paul LaVinn, Jonas Lashmet, Ron Larsen, Charles Clark and Miss Barbara Taylor.

McGivern outlined the revision of the social studies program for the coming year. A prepared report was given to each board member to read. McGivern stated that the team teaching program, which has been in operation at Lincoln-Way since last September, will be expanded. The program is being handled in such an outstanding manner that professors from the University of Chicago and also other high school teachers and officials have been coming to Lincoln-

Train, Bakery Truck Collide Near Mokena

A passenger train and a loaded bakery truck ran a deadheat at the Hamilton road crossing of the Rock Island just west of Mokena last Saturday morning about 8:55 o'clock.

The truck was demolished but the driver, Rudolph Colognesi, 25, of Joliet, escaped without serious injury. Bakery goods were scattered along the right of way for a distance of several blocks, thus providing birds and squirrels with a gigantic banquet.

Colognesi told Mokena Police Officer Joseph Heim that he was traveling in the direction of Francis road. The approach to the track is steep and Colognesi said he couldn't see the train until he was practically on the tracks. The train, west bound, had just stopped at Mokena but had picked up speed so when it hit the truck it carried the vehicle along with it for a considerable distance. Colognesi rode it out and was removed from the wreck by police and sent to Silver Cross hospital. Examination revealed that he was bruised but apparently had escaped other injury. The truck was his own property but operated for the Peter Wheat company.

Speakers Available To Tell Junior College Story

Frank Mlakar, from the Lincoln-Way district, member of the public relations committee of the South Suburban community junior college survey said an intensive coverage of all involved districts would be given by providing speakers and panel members to community organizations. Thus far response has been excellent, he said.

Utilizing members of the general committee to act as speakers, the group's aim is to have community members be well informed concerning the facts of the study.

What kind of educational program will the proposed junior college offer to the people of the community, is oftentimes asked. Will students be able to compete for higher salaries and better jobs in the competitive labor market after graduation from the proposed junior college, is often a major concern of parents in the ten districts. How rugged will the college parallel program be? Will students graduating from the proposed junior college be able to enter the junior year of a university without any difficulty? Mr. Mlakar explained that members of the curriculum committee will be answering such questions as these as well as many others including those on adult education needs and those on guidance.

Members of the finance committee will be answering questions concerning the total assessed valuation of the proposed district. Of course, Mr. Mlakar explained, the one major question besides educational program is that of cost. What will it cost me, people ask, I am a suburbanite, or a farmer, or an industrialist, or a city dweller. Will this school be worth in educational opportunity what it will cost me in dollars?

Such a question the public relations committee hopes each citizen will answer on the basis of the facts.

Mrs. Arthur Engstrom, public relations consultant, says that growth and development are usually the result of self-sacrifice; that is the history of educational progress. At the time, it is very much a fact, when federal taxes are high and the people are bending every effort to keep pace with the demands of education at the elementary and secondary level. Still, Mrs. Engstrom states, if the facts clearly indicate the need for an area junior college offering a wide range of educational opportunity, the people will probably want to make whatever personal sacrifice is necessary to develop an area junior college to meet the variety of needs in the proposed junior college district.

Where will the college be located and can my children commute each day, are two questions asked by citizens of the building committee. Will it be close enough so they can keep their present job and still attend? Will it be served by public transportation?

Of course, said Mr. Mlakar, everyone wants to know how many full-time and full-time equivalent students can this institution expect when it opens its doors and three years later, and five, and ten. This perhaps is one of the most difficult questions. Who can say how many people who do not, cannot, and will not attend a university, will attend a junior college. Who knows what hopes and ambitions lie in the hearts of people not being met by present educational opportunity. Nevertheless, Mr. Mlakar explained, the population committee has made some estimates as to the projected enrollment in this school.

Public relations committee members have been high in their praise of newspaper coverage.

Mrs. Arthur Engstrom commends all newspapers for their strict adherence to the facts, a service to the people only the newspapers can give in such amounts to so many and over such a large area.

Convict On Rampage Hits N. Lenox Man

A guard at Stateville prison, Lt. Frank Beere, 26, of 712 Cedar Rd., New Lenox, suffered minor injuries Friday during a scuffle with an unruly inmate. Beere was given emergency treatment at the prison hospital for cuts and scratches about his face and neck.

According to information obtained by Warden Frank Pate, Lt. Beere was escorting inmate Lawrence Hall, formerly of Chicago, to the detention hospital when the 24 year-old convict turned on him.

Lt. Beere, during the scuffle, was pushed face first into a row of hedges. The scratches were incurred from the branches on the bushes. Other guards overpowered Hall within a couple of minutes.

Warden Pate said Hall has been an inmate at the prison since Nov. 10 of last year. He was received from Cook county, where he was sentenced to serve from one to two years for robbery.

Warden Pate said that during the five months of Hall's confinement to the prison, 11 reports have been filed against him. The warden termed Hall's actions Friday as his most serious infraction of the rules. Hall will be examined by a psychiatrist before any punishment for the incident is imposed.

Lt. Beere returned to duty Saturday.

DONATION FOR BOOKS is made to the Lincoln-Way high school library by the new defunct Toastmasters club of New Lenox. Last president of the club was Ronald Whittaker and the secretary-treasurer, at the right of this picture, was John A. Burlingame. There was $50 left in the treasury that the club decided to donate to the Lincoln-Way library book fund. Mr. Burlingame is tendering a check for that amount to Supt. A. Hunter Chapman. Looking on is Dorothy Wells, librarian.

Monday's Wind So High It Breaks Anemometer

Heavy winds with gusts that reached a velocity of 100 miles an hour in some parts of the area swept the region Monday.

There was some damage reported to roofs and outbuildings and power lines were blown down. Repair crews from the Public Service worked all afternoon and into the night to get lines back into service.

At the Joliet municipal airport, about four miles west of the city, wind gusts of 100 m.p.h. were measured at 12:30 p. m. That was the last measurement taken at the airport Monday because it was then that the cups were blown off the anemometer (wind gauge), disabling the instrument.

Sheds and other out buildings were reported damaged and one persons grabbing a piece of roofing felt as the wind peeled it from a shed was dragged along but released it before he was knocked off his feet.

Considerable dust was carried aloft so that at times the clouds had a yellow look.

Tree branches were blown down and in some localities entire trees were felled by the wind.

No monetary value has been placed on the loss as yet.

During intermission "The Tone Poets" from Carl Sandburg high school presented several vocal selections. Refreshments were served and special awards were presented by club members after the show. Proceeds from this show will be used by the club to sponsor a local philanthropic project later this spring.

Mrs. William Nelson general chairman of the show was assisted by Mrs. Milton Westlund, decorations; Mrs. Robert Johnson, models; Mrs. William Mohr, tickets; Mrs. Glenn Wiedemann, publicity; Mrs. Thomas Gonzales, special awards; Mrs. Merrill Cooper, ushers; Mrs. Clarence Creer, bake sale; Mrs. Oscar Enk, fine arts booth; and Mrs. Ernest Bengtson, refreshments.

At the clubs regular monthly meeting Monday evening March 20, in the Legion Hall, Zay Smith, director of the Palos Village Players, presented an interesting commentary on "How To Enjoy A Play."

Physical Ed. Show At L-W Draws Plaudits Of Crowd

The first Lincoln-Way physical education department demonstration held Friday evening, March 24, was described as a big success. Over 800 spectators turned out to watch more than 300 students perform.

The students opened with calisthenics, much in the same manner each day's gym class begins. Following this came a review of the physical fitness tests which are given twice a year and compared for national ratings. It was brought out that Lincoln-Way has always rated high in these tests.

Several of the boys then gave a demonstration of weight lifting.

The girls' department was featured next with a girls' basketball game.

Then came a modern dance entitled "Celebration of Spring," by Jane Berlin, Judy Bailey, Susan Blomquist, and Pat Loucks. A solo dance, "Hope," by Jane Morrison followed.

The next event included virtually every member of the freshman class. The first hour class was followed by the third hour students in a demonstration of square dancing. The department has been teaching square dancing in an attempt to make a "better rounded" group out of the freshmen, and also to get them to mix together.

The final attraction of the evening was devoted to the "baby" of the department, gymnastics. This has been the first year it has been included in the P.E. curriculum, and student response has been outstanding. Among the aspects covered were side horse, trampoline, parallel bars, and tumbling. A performance on the uneven parallel bars and the trampoline by Jane Morrison, drew an ovation from the audience.

DOG MISSING

Deputy Sheriff Stanley Drake, 721 S. Pine St., New Lenox, reported Monday morning that one of his dogs disappeared from his property Sunday. Drake said the animal is a male beagle that answers to the name of "Boe." It is black and brown in color.

Plan For Industrial Growth

In a talk last week before the Joliet Public Relations Industrial Commission, Sidney B. Westby, district superintendent of the Public Service Co., discussed a subject that is of vital interest to the communities of this area -- the importance of planned industrial growth.

Any zoning plan for an area is not complete, he pointed out, unless it includes provision for orderly development of industrial sites.

Before coming to the Joliet area some years ago, Mr. Westby took an active part in the industrial development of the north and north west suburbs of Chicago. He also was one of the key officials in a special department set up by Commonwealth Edison Co. to assist business and industrial firms in selecting locations.

In the north and northwest suburbs zoning laws have been enacted which requires that industrial sites be laid out with streets, curb and gutter, sidewalks, sewer and water, fire hydrants, specified setbacks, parking spaces and landscaping. Types of buildings are also specified so they are pleasing to eye as well as being functional.

Some of the communities in this area have similar thoughts in mind and village boards are considering ordinances to meet the situation.

Mokena and Frankfort have adopted a joint land use plan and have their industrial sections separated from the residential sections but there is still work to be done to setup their development.

In his talk last week Westby stressed that the "virtue of patience is one of the most important elements in industrial development."

The average investment made by an industry in putting up new plants or on expansion plans is approximately $19,000 per employee, Westby stated. So one can see why there may be delays before a company reaches a final decision on its location.

"Along with a healthy industrial climate should be an awareness by the community itself of the value of industry to a community," Westby emphasized. "The welfare of a community is basically associated with an industrial climate. The economy is geared to this industrial climate."

He added that a favorable attitude on the part of public officials is important to industrial expansion, and pointed out that sometimes it is not a problem of what is done but what is not done.

"It means a public education program, on a people to people basis," Westby declared, "so people are sold on themselves and the merits of their own communities. Then surprising things can happen."

The north and northwest suburbs have almost reached the saturation point as far as industrial development is concerned, which means that the south and southwest areas are in for tremendous growth within the next two decades.

We must be prepared for it.

On Second Thought

By GLENN F. LOGAN

A magazine carried an article dealing with fairy tales and nursery rhymes which this department thought was of some interest to those who relish the trivial.

According to this magazine piece there was a movement to bring sweetness and light into this field so that youngsters reading or hearing these stories would not encounter anything to offend their pure little minds or cause some tot to stop and say: "Hey, what gives here?"

The article went on to quote various persons who are said to be qualified psychiatrists and psychologists to the effect that some of these rhymes and tales might have on the future conduct of these young readers.

Little Jack Horner, for instance, was given a spoon to extract plums from his pie instead of gouging them out with his thumb. The thumb technique was frowned upon. Reading such a thing could cause a let down in table manners that some future time might cause the reader to lose out on a big promotion.

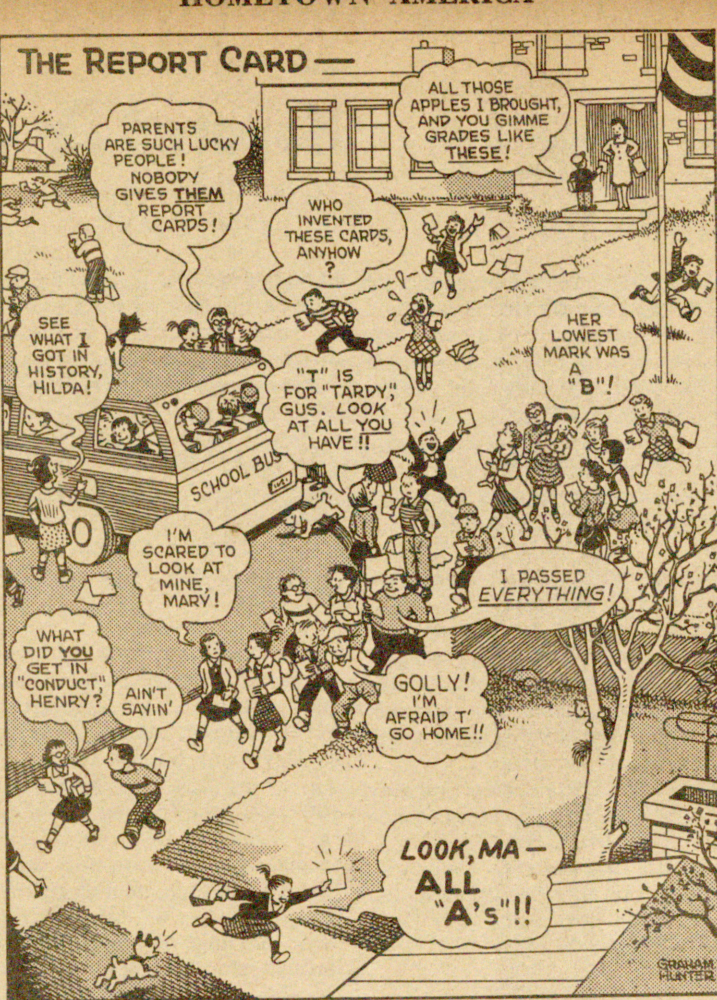

This seems a bit far fetched to this department when one considers that most of the young fry today appear to be allowed to watch TV while eating. And if bolting food while sprawled out on the floor and in general making a mess of things because they are so occupied watching the screen they are unable to hit their mouths, in conducive of acquiring manners and good eating habits this corner will be surprised.

And speaking of TV it is the humble opinion of this department that more blood is spilled on television and in so-called comic books than in fairy tales and nursery rhymes. The good guys of fairy tales and TV are equally starry-eyed. The villains -- well, to this department the villains of the fairy tales are simpler than their film and cartoon counterparts.

Fairy tale villains have it pretty easy. If ordinary mortals they either decapitate or burn their victims; if possessed of magic powers they may vary the method of dispatch by eating them, with or without salt and pepper.

Contemporary villains have a wide assortment of lethal methods but lopping off heads with one stroke of a sword has become a lost art. Modern villains may employ plants or animals for the job if the victims are to be devoured. Apparently cannibalism just isn't done by better class villains today.

Reading of this purported change in plot structure and characterization this writer spent a couple of days browsing in book stores and wishes to report that the books examined by him still follow the original lines. Contrary to those who would spare children such details we would like to report that the wolf who tried to sell Little Red Riding Hood a bill of goods was not a vegetarian as the sweetness and light school would have him be. He had gobbled up grandma and would have swallowed Little Red too but for her footwork and the timely appearance of a woodcutter who settled the wolf's hash with one swipe of his sharp ax. Another swipe -- this one a feather stroke -- made a neat incision along the wolf's stomach and out popped grandma, apparently none the worse for her adventure.

Hansel and Gretel -- at least in the only editions we saw -- let their appetite for gingerbread lure them into the hands of a witch whose cannibalistic tendencies proved to be her comecupance and she was dispatched with considerable efficiency so the good people in the story could live happily ever afterwards.

In Jack and the Beanstalk there is no question of whether the giant fell or was he pushed -- he came tumbling down when Jack severed the beanstalk with a few well directed blows of an ax, and like Humpty Dumpty, was a coroner's case.

This magazine article gave a different version of Tom, the Piper's son. In the new look into Mother Goose, Tom is not a juvenile delinquent with larcenous leanings but in the copies we saw that are on sale these days Tom "... stole a pig and away he ran." And no probation for Tom either. We understand that The Society for Making Friends for Spiders, has put in a complaint on the Miss Muffet sequence. All of you are acquainted with the story line. This girl, Muffet, was parked on a tuffet and making a big production out of eating curds and whey. She was on a reducing diet. Then along came a spider, a big, hairy, scary type, who sat down beside her and frightened Miss Muffet away.

The Friends for Spiders group object to these lines as prejudicial to spiders in general and tends to give them an inferiority complex. Muffet wasn't afraid of the spider, they claim, but was provoked because while keeping strictly to her diet of curds and whey she had gained rather than lost. This was proved by the fact that the spider couldn't find room on the tuffet and had to pull up a chair.

There may be calls for the watered versions of nursery rhymes and fairy tales but children being what they are -- little savages -- probably will demand the standard editions with all the gory details.

And they may consider those a little watered after some of the fare offered on TV and the horror pictures produced by the movie people.

After watching a "mad scientist" and the misshapen monsters of his creation in action the beholding of a witch or ogre is good clean fun.

Washington News Letter

by CONGR. N. M. MASON
The enrollment in our public schools has increased 33% in the last 10 years, reaching the all-time peak of 37,244,284 pupils -- 25,265,620 in our public elementary schools and 11,978,664 in our public high schools.

The cost of public education in our elementary and high schools has more than doubled in the last 10 years, having jumped from $6.5 billion in 1950 to $16.5 billion in 1960. This $16.5 billion includes $13 billion operating expense, $3 billion in capital outlay, and $500 million in interest charges. This $16.5 billion also represents an increase in cost of 153%. Thus the average yearly cost per pupil has now reached the all-time high of $390.

FEDERAL AID NO PANACEA FOR OUR EDUCATIONAL NEED: Now comes a proposal by President Kennedy for federal aid to education to the tune of some $5 billion over a period of years; and this, according to the President, cannot legally go to parochial or private schools. As the writer interprets the Constitution, public school education is the sole responsibility and function of the states and local districts. If the federal government is to assume some of this responsibility, then it should assume it for "all the children of Uncle Sam" -- including those attending parochial schools.

The writer is opposed to federal aid to education. He spoke against it more than 30 years ago when he was president of the Illinois Education Association. He has spoken against it many times during the past 20 years on the house floor. However, if federal aid to education is to be provided in order to insure equal educational opportunities for every child in America, then it should be provided for the children who attend parochial schools, and I will so vote.

FACTS AGAINST FEDERAL AID FOR EDUCATION: 1. There is not one word in the United States Constitution that delegates power to the President or to the Federal government to subsidize, to aid, or to meddle in any way with the public schools of the nation. The Tenth Amendment to the Constitution forbids it in these words: The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people. 2. Every state in the Union is far better off financially than the Federal government. The Federal debt of $285 billion is much greater than the public debt of all our states, all our local governments, and all other world governments put together. 3. Federal aid for education is not a temporary program to meet an immediate emergency, as stated by its proponents. This is the old stock-in-trade excuse for starting every new Federal program. It was used to start the Marshall Plan of European aid which was to end after 4 years and after an expenditure of $17 billion. The Marshall Plan -- as we all know -- is still with us, under a different name, and already has cost our taxpayers $60 billion dollars. EDUCATION, A PREPARATION FOR LIVING: In the "good old days" -- 30 or 40 years ago -- our American schools used to teach and stress the "Three R's". They also insisted upon strict discipline. They were old-fashioned enough to believe that discipline was an important part, an essential part, a valuable part of school training. Character formation and proper habits of study and behavior were important objectives of education. In those days pupils were taught to "stand upon their own feet", to "hoe their own row", to "paddle their own canoe". The teachers of that day were old-fashioned enough to believe that this world is a competitive world, where adults are required to compete with each other for a place in the sun; that if "education is a preparation for living", as the books say, then it

The headlines are now filled with strange sounding names from Laos. Military experts have been advising that the facts of geography and military tactics, demand that we must be fully aware of the importance of these strategically located lands and their geographical importance. Military experts have tried to get the public to understand that if we lose some of these small lands, we seriously compromise our whole military strategy of protection for this country.

As investment analysts have been stating, our defense budget is made in Moscow. We must meet Russian moves with moves of our own or suffer defeat. Russia has no public opinion as we understand it, and can vary its plans of action at will without worry about an imminent election. It is difficult for peoples of the western world to understand the Russian attitudes toward an agreement or contract. Our history is one of sanctity of a contract and moral, as well as legal, obligation to comply with terms of a contract. Russian history indicates they are not burdened by such attitudes.

Investors must keep these facts in mind and are little influenced by political statements as to fixed budget claims on defense matters.

The electronics field has been an important beneficiary of government research spending in this field. Government research spending in electronics has been increasing under pressures of need to keep ahead in the defense race for leadership in space and missile field, etc.

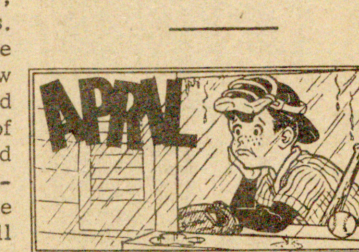

The investor finds a wide range of election in electronics. There are firms whose products and names are well known and with established earnings patterns as well as firms whose activities are in more volatile areas and new discoveries, etc. have a heavier impact on their individual earnings pictures. The latter, of course, are often the ones to get the head lines.

Some of the sensational experiences in electronics, have caused the creation of investor services which largely limit their interests to electronic issues. One well known investment commentator has described "electronics" as not actually an industry with definable limits, but rather a technology applied in all industry.

Market analysts have been pointing out that the recession is ending and business is getting better. A well known market analyst points out that although some may feel that the stock market advance has been considerably greater than business improvement, the practical viewer will note the momentum of the stock advance and find it unwise to debate with such momentum.

Some market analysts point out that within three weeks or a month, some of the investors who purchased stocks at the start of the present rise, will have held the required six months and can sell with only capital gains tax on profits. Realization of this potential profit taking, could have a temporary dampening effect on market prices.

Government figures reveal that each recession has left unemployment fully recovered. The unemployment percentage has been greater after each recession since World War II. This fact will bring about further government spending to meet the political impact of this condition.

Hints For Homeowners

by JAMES FIZZELL, ASS'T. FARM ADVISER

Some of the home garden's prettiest and easiest to care for flowers are bulbs. Several examples are tulips, glads, peonies and daffodils. Here are some pointers on their care:

FERTILIZER: Most bulb plants need little if any fertilizer. Usually they obtain all their necessary nutrients from the soil without any being added.

PLANT TOPS: Do not remove the tops of bulb plants until they die naturally. The leaves manufacture food material which is stored in the bulbs. This makes strong healthy bulbs which will continue to bloom year after year. When tops are removed after blooming, an adequate amount of food material is not available to keep the bulbs strong. Bulb plants treated this way will eventually cease to bloom.

IRIS BORER: Control this insect pest with a spray or dust of 5 percent DDT. Make the first application between the time when plants first begin growing and when they reach a height of four inches. Then make two more applications ten days apart.

IRIS ROT: This disease cannot be controlled now. Instead, wait until August and dig up plants. Then cut out all rot and treat cut surfaces with a sulphur dust. Conditions which favor rot include: borer damage, poor drainage, crowded plants, garden debris around and over plants, and plants in shaded areas. These conditions prevent crowns from drying out. Prevention should include: controlling borers, planting in area with good drainage, spacing plants and thinning periodically, cleaning up debris and planting iris in full sunlight.

PEONIES: Peonies, too, need little if any fertilizer. Some peonies in University of Illinois plots, planted 25 years ago, have never received fertilizer, and they are still healthy and vigorous plants. Remove peony tops in the fall after they have been killed by frost. ALL tops and other refuse from peony beds must be burned as they carry disease spores.

If ants move into peonies, don't be alarmed. They are looking for sweet nectar and will not harm the plant itself. Ants are easily controlled by applying chlordane dust to the soil around the base of the plant. Do not apply dust to the peony plant.

A new service is being initiated through the Extension office in Tinley Park. Starting March 30, anyone in the south suburban area can dial KEOG 2-4329 and receive a recorded and timely message about care of the home grounds. These messages will cover topics such as: Lawns, trees, shrubs, insects and diseases, weed control, and other topics which we hope will be helpful to homeowners in caring for their home grounds. It is anticipated that the messages will be changed daily during the week. The same message will be offered the entire week-end. We hope you will try this service and we would appreciate receiving your comments about it.

The University of Illinois Ag Guest Day for high school students interested in a career in agriculture will be held April 8. This program, which is sponsored by the College of Agriculture, covers admission, costs, scholarships, loans, housing, campus life and careers. The program starts at 9 a.m. The first session on careers runs from 11 a.m. until noon; the second career session is from 2 to 3 p.m. All interested high school students, their parents and friends are invited to attend these functions.

The College of Agriculture Alumni Association will hold its annual meeting Thursday, April 6 at 10:30 a.m. in room 314 in Illini Union on the campus at Urbana. Anyone who has ever attended the College of Agriculture, is invited to attend. Luncheon reservations should be sent to Karl Gardner, 104 Mumford Hall, Urbana before April 3.

Recent research at the University of Illinois shows that deaking pullets does not hamper their year-round egg production. Many farmers hesitate to deake for fear egg production will drop.

A University of Illinois landscape specialist says the best time to control scale insects on ornamental trees and shrubs is just before the trees break bud.

Will County Salon 665 of the 8 and 40 met Monday, March 20 in the home of Mrs. Kenneth Oetter, of Frankfort.

The meeting was called to order by Chapeau Hazel Zell. The ritual of the organization and the pledge to the American flag was repeated by the group, followed by a prayer given by L'Alummonier Hanna Tromp. Guests of the evening were department LeChapeau Ruth Laperuque, LeSecretaire Caisiere Lucille Acklin and partnership chairman Virginia Kates all of Chicago.

The Upper Room

Read John 4:7-14
Jesus, knowing that all things were now accomplished, that the scripture might be fulfilled, saith, I thirst. (John 19:28).

No physical suffering is more torturous than burning thirst. Men have been known to exchange gold gladly for a single cup of cold water. Thirst has driven men mad. Men have committed murder for a drink of water. We cannot live without it. It is the absolute essential for all living things.

Spoken from the cross, the Savior's words, "I thirst," represent the cry of universal need. He, too, experienced burning thirst. In calling for water, the Son of God identified Himself with all mankind. He knew our greatest physical need.

Above and beyond our longing for refreshing water, there is a much greater need: spiritual refreshment for dying souls. We so often live in moral and spiritual deserts. The hot, angry sun of sinful pride, selfishness, godlessness burns down upon us. Our souls are in danger of perishing. Christ Himself brings the cool soul-satisfying water which gives new life.

PRAYER: O God, our spirits are exhausted. Our souls are crying for that living water. May the eternal Christ come to us and give to us the life-restoring cup. May we receive from Him and, in the receiving, may we live. In our Savior's name we ask, Amen.

Sue Officers Of Robbins

(CNS) A taxpayer's suit charging officials of the Village of Robbins with "civic mismanagement" was filed in Circuit court this week.

George Farmer, the taxpayer, filed suit against Village President Ernest Maxey calling him a "czar" and "dictator" who refused to explain financial dealings to the trustees.

The following trustees are also named defendants: Flozell Moore, Andrew Prestwood, Herman Davis, Odell Anderson, and Leo Wilson.

Among the things not "fully reported" to taxpayers and the trustees, the suit said, were a federal loan of $1,135,000 for sewers and a state grant of $45,000 for street repairs.

A little boy answered the salesman's phone call. "Is your mother or father home?" the salesman asked. The answer was no. "Well," persisted the salesman, "anyone else I can talk to?" The boy said his sister was there and he'd put her on. There was a five-minute wait. Finally the boy got on the phone. "I'm sorry," he said, "but I can't lift her out of her crib."

VISIT NIKE BASE at Orland Park. These young visitors are members of the Science Club of the Orland Park grade school and last Saturday they made a tour of the Nike installation. Accompanied by Lt. Ernest Divis the boys and girls saw everything that is permissible to see. They had a first-hand, close-up look at the missiles which the Nike bases are prepared to use in defense of Chicago against aerial attack. One of these missiles is shown here, looking for all the world like a king-size skyrocket. In the lower picture Lt. Divis is acting as host to the youngsters as they take on milk to bolster their strength after tramping about the base. There were cookies too that did not make an appearance until after this picture was taken. The young lady at the left is Carol Benson. Going to the right is Janis Mruzek on the other side of Lt. Divis. Holding the pitcher is Barbara Weiss and with her back to the camera is Sally Town. There is a boy, Martin Lesniewicz to her left and at the end of the table, barely discernible is Martha Fish.

Voters To Elect JPs, Town, Park Dist. Officers

Voters of Frankfort and New Lenox townships will go to the polls next Tuesday April 4 to participate in at least two elections. Mokena residents and those living in the outer confines of the Mokena park district will have three elections in which to vote.

The two townships, in common with the others in the county, will choose town officials. There is no need for voters in the town elections to be registered. Nor is there any requirement for the registration of voters in the park district election. However, voters in the park district will be required to sign affidavits to the effect they are residents of the district and qualified voters.

Because there is but one candidate in the park district election, Clarence Lauffer, an incumbent now running for a regular six-year term, the district decided to have but on polling place, the Cooper-Hostert garage on Front street, Mokena.

Last week it was erroneously announced that the same election judges would serve in all three elections. The judges who count the vote in the town election will also serve in the same capacity in the election at which justices of the peace and constables are to be chosen. The park district, however, will have its own judges.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 6 p.m. The same polling places used in county election in New Lenox and Frankfort townships will be used for the town and the JP elections.

This year for the first time justices of the peace and constables are designated as county officials. JPs will become salaried; constables will continue to operate on a fee basis.

In Will county the justices of the peace will receive $9,000 a year in salary and the county will also pay for their office rent, including supplies, utilities and light.

There are to be seven JPs in the county, three of them from the Central or Second District, which is made up of Frankfort,

New Lenox, Joliet and Troy townships.

There is a contest on with the Republicans backing one ticket and the Democrats the other.

On the Republican ticket the JP candidates are Anthony Mackay and George Williams, incumbents, both of Joliet, and Grant B. (Jim) Geuther, of Frankfort, a real estate and insurance dealer. Opposing them on the Democratic ticket are Robert Bucher and William Bossingham, both of Joliet, and George Sangmeister, Jr., of Mokena, son of the mayor of Frankfort. All three of the Democratic candidates are lawyers.

Candidates for constable on the Republican ticket are:

Albert W. Bouray, incumbent; Arthur C. Peterson, former state highway foreman, and James B. Washburn, former deputy sheriff, all of Joliet.

Candidates for constable on the Democratic ticket are:

Chester F. Bielec, Joliet; William F. Wessel, Troy, and John A. Brent, New Lenox. Brent is 43 years old and a native of Joliet. He is a graduate of Chicago Technical College and was one of the 10 persons who helped design the first atomic powered electric generating plant at Idaho Falls, Idaho. For three and a half years he was shop supervisor of the U. S. Army Ordnance heavy automotive maintenance branch and is now employed as a design engineer of the Blockson Division of the Olin-Mathieson Chemical Co., at Joliet. He is married, has two children and resides at 181 Hawthorne st., New Lenox.

Voters are reminded by those in charge of elections they they can lose votes by marking their ballots as straight votes and then crossing over in the races involving JPs, constable and town auditors. These candidates are not pitted against each other as individuals.

As an example take Part A and Party B on the JP ballot. A cross in the circle at the head of Party A and a cross in a square in front of the name of a JP candidate on Party B, means that the only JP candidate to receive a vote is the one marked on Party B. The three candidates for constable on Party A would also each receive a vote on a ballot so marked.

However, if the person who marked the cross in the circle at the top of Party A and crossed over to mark a cross in the square preceding the name of a JP candidate on Party B, would also mark a cross in the square preceding the name of a Party B candidate for constable, no candidate on Party A would have a vote and the only candidates who would have would be the ones marked as individuals.

At the county clerk's office in Joliet voters were advised to place an X in the square preceding the name of each of the candidates of their choice whether they vote a straight ticket or cross over. It is the safest way to make a vote count. The same applies to candidates for auditors on the town tickets.

48 Patients At Tinley Hosp. Go To Circus

Forty-eight Tinley Park State hospital patients attended the Shrine circus Wednesday, March 8. A chartered bus left the hospital at 12:30 for the Medinah temple, returning at 6 p.m.

Patients were accompanied by members of the nursing department and volunteers. Col. John Edwards, security chief and a Shriner, received donations of tickets from Shriners Henry Bettenhausen and Robert Bettenhausen, Tinley Park; Harry C. Hanlin, Joliet and William M. Robbins, Chicago, making it possible for a total of 56 to attend.

Plans are being made to repeat the trip next year.

Rob N. Lenox Man Of $60

Thomas Carey, 71, of South Cedar Rd., New Lenox, was found bleeding from several head wounds by three young persons at Center and McConeough streets, Joliet, Friday night.

Carey was taken to St. Joseph's hospital where he received several stitches in the lacerations and was then released. He was found by Gary Blessing, 16, and his brother, Lewis, both of 210 Illinois St. and Richard Breen, 12, of 208 Illinois St., Joliet.

Carey told Joliet city police he was walking near the railroad tracks at Joliet and Lafayette streets when he was approached by a man who struck him on the head, knocking him out. He said when he came to, his wallet containing $60 was missing. He walked to Center and McConeough where he was found by the youths.

Circuit Judge Puts Burglars On Probation

The young men involved in the burglaries of the Park and Shop food market and the Swanberg Implement Company office at Mokena and the Standard Industrial Compounds Co. plant at Frankfort, were placed on probation by Circuit Judge James V. Bartley last week.

They are to serve three years on probation and violation of the terms will mean penitentiary.

There were nine involved in a long series of burglaries and arson cases in Will, Grundy and Bureau counties.

Five of them must serve six month terms on the state farm at Vandalia prior to release on probation; two of them are to serve 30 days in the Will county jail and two were released to begin probation immediately.

All are from Joliet and Lockport.

Besides the burglaries the gang also was responsible for fires at the home of a Joliet police officer, the Union school on Cherry Hill road, an old barn in Plainfield township, and a vacant house and garage on Rowell ave., Joliet.

Girls Win Spelling Bee At Frankfort

The claim that as a rule girls are better spellers than boys was borne out in the sectionals of the Will County spelling contest held Monday night at Frankfort.

The winner and runner up were girls, as were the two alternates.

The winner, Janine Hagen, of Haven school, New Lenox, and the runner-up, Karen Delaney, of St. Joseph school, Manhattan, are now qualified to compete in the finals at Pershing school, Joliet, on April 15.

First alternate chosen at the sectional was Krystal Luckhart, St. Jude school, New Lenox, and the second alternate is Jo Van Rheeden, of the Frankfort grade school.

There were 60 rounds in the sectional at Frankfort before the match could be decided. There were 14 contestants, all representing underlying schools in the Lincoln-Way high school district.

Approximately 200 persons attended the contest.

Driver Dies Under Wheels Of Own Truck

A truck driver from New York City, Alberto Arrieta, 46 years old, was killed about noon last Friday (March 24) near Frankfort when he was run over by his own semi-trailer.

Just how the accident happened is conjectural for as far as Coroner Willard G. Blood is aware no one actually saw it. W. R. Smith, a worker on the Swift company farm across the road, told the coroner afterwards that he saw the vehicle roll slowly forward and into the ditch and then saw the body of a man lying on the shoulder. He had not noticed the man previously.

The coroner and the Frankfort chief of police, Francis Simon who was the first official at the scene, believe the man may have leaned out to look at some part of the truck and lost his balance or that he may have become ill and fell in trying to get out and fell beneath the wheels.

The left rear wheels passed over Arrieta, killing him instantly.

The accident occurred on U.S. 45, about half a mile south of the E.J. & E. overpass. The truck was heading south and was empty. The vehicle is the property of a Brooklyn, N.Y. firm.

Will Start New Catholic High In May

The chancery office announced recently that the Christian Brothers of the St. Louis Province have almost completed their plans for the new co-educational Providence high school. Since the Providence Sisters are to teach the girls, plans were submitted to the Providence Motherhouse at Terre Haute, Ind., and have been approved by the Providence Sisters.

The school will be one-story type, facing on Route 30, just east of the Northern Illinois Gas office building at Gougar Road. Faculty residence for the Christian Brothers will be built at the west side of the lot, adjoining the high school wing for boys.

Administrative offices, various science laboratories, a cafeteria and gymnasium will be contained in the center of the building. The school will be built so that it can be expanded in the future as the needs require. When it is completed in September, 1962, it will accommodate 400 boys and 400 girls, with the possibility of doubling this figure in the future.

The architectural firm of B. J. Knowles and Co., Inc., has designed the building. Bids are expected to be taken in the beginning of April. Groundbreaking probably will be in early May.

Roll-Out From Chicago Sends Industry To Suburbs

Strategically located towns in Illinois from Joliet in the northeast to Beardstown in the west and Belleville in the southwest "may be expected to attract an every larger share of our nation's expanding industries in the next decade or so," according to Dr. Peter P. Klassen, professor of sociology at the University of Illinois Chicago Division.

Speaking before the LaGrange Real Estate Board Monday (March 27) Dr. Klassen said that the completion and more efficient use of the St. Lawrence Seaway, the Calumet Sag Channel, the Sanitary and Ship Canal, and the extensive Illinois waterways transportation system will be a key factor in this growth of industry.

He cited such towns as Lockport, Joliet, Morris, Ottawa, LaSalle, Peru, Pekin and Peoria in the northeastern part of the state; and Havana, Beardstown, Alton, East St. Louis and Belleville in the southwest as towns which can expect considerable growth.

"Provided the problem of water can be solved, industrial developments may also be expected along the toll roads intersecting the state," he said.

"Therefore, within the next decade or so, many a sleepy village and town in this complex of waterways and toll roads will be turned into bustling industrial and commercial communities."

Dr. Klassen said that the size of the labor force which will be needed and brought in by these new developments is difficult to estimate at this time.

"However, the figure eventually is expected to run into the hundreds of thousands."

"Signs of an imminent industrial invasion to be followed by a more immediate population invasion and shift into the northeastern part of the state are already in abundant evidence."

"Whether we like it or not, because of Chicago's strategic location in this hemisphere, its industrial and commercial complex of tomorrow will include many of the still isolated small communities within a radius of one hundred and more miles."

"Similar industrial developments, though perhaps on a somewhat smaller scale, may be expected in the southwestern part of the state," he said.

While the rest of the state is growing, the city of Chicago proper has nearly reached the point where additional growth is impossible.

"It is a well recognized fact that, with a population density of 16,915 persons per square mile, the city of Chicago has just about reached its saturation point, and that the city has already slowed down considerably in its growth.

"Due to overcrowding it appears self-evident, therefore, that with a rapid increase in our population coupled with continued commercial and industrial growth, future expansion will have to take place in the suburban and other outlying areas of Illinois," he said.

The area surrounding the city of Chicago, however, will continue to grow until it reaches tremendous proportions.

"If present trends continue, for the year 2050 a possible U. S. population of one billion has been predicted. In such an event Illinois alone would have a population of 57,350,000."

"Of this number 36,000,000 people would be living in contiguous communities in a huge cultural, industrial and commercial complex known as the Megalopolis of Chicago," according to Dr. Klassen.

"On all sides we see the industrial potential of a greater tomorrow," he said. "Today's dream of a still higher standard of living will be tomorrow's reality -- tomorrow's minimum and necessity.

"Revolutionary developments in the fields of chemistry, the atom and electronics will immeasurably increase the prosperity, well-being and security of the American people, and the people of the state of Illinois."

If Patrick Henry thought taxation without representation was bad . . . he ought to see it with representation!

James Tilsey Heads New CROP Program

Christian Rural Overseas Program, an organization which collects surplus grain each year for shipment and distribution to the world's needy is planning a new program called Friendship Acres.

James Tilsey, of Mokena, chairman of CROP board of directors announced that the idea is to secure one or two farmers in each township to take part in the program by designating one acre of land as a Friendship Acre.

As the crop is harvested the grain can be delivered directly to an elevator and earmarked for CROP or it can be held until the annual CROP drive in the county.

Some farmers, Tilsey added, may wish to join the project by an alternative method, designating one bushel for each acre they plant as the gift to Friendship Acres.

Three European capitals, Vienna, Budapest, and Belgrade, are all on the Danube River.
